Corona Pandemic in Pakistan

Coronavirus is one of the most dangerous disease ever spread in the world. Fever, cough, weariness, and a loss of taste or smell are the most typical symptoms of covid-19. Covid-19 affects a large number of people in Pakistan that causes huge amount of death. It spreads like a wildfire in Pakistan. It is also changing our life style and social behavior.

It is said that COVID-19 has been acquired at a food market in Wuhan, China, where meat, fish, and live animals were sold. However researchers are not sure how people became infected while they do know that the virus may be transmitted from person to person through close contact. We cannot even go outside without wearing face masks.

The very first case of COVID-19 was reported in Pakistan in February 2020. This pandemic has affected all of us. However, the pandemic's impact and effects are perceived differently which is based on our experiences as individuals and members of society. It has a negative effect on education sector also. Due to lockdown for many months, colleges and universities have to be closed which leads to online classes. We are in the midst of an educational crisis due to coronavirus. Every child has a right to attend school as learning is essential. Despite this, many countries keep their schools closed due to their safety and well-being.

The vaccine is introduced in Pakistan to save the people from Covid-19. Vaccination of Covid is helping in reducing the risk of COVID-19 infection. The vaccine may cause unwanted side effects in adults and children, which are natural indications that their bodies are developing protection against harmful virus. These side effects may reduce their ability to do daily tasks. People must be aware of these signs before vaccination. There are usually no side effects for many people while others are experiencing fever, flu and body ache.

The coronavirus infection has significant impact on both national and global economies. So, in this respect, we all need to save ourselves from this threatening disease. We have to follow all the precautions issued by the government of Pakistan and should wear masks whenever we go outside.
